

DID YOU KNOW THAT MBA OFFERS SLI COVERAGE?

- Supplemental Liability Insurance (SLI) is excess liability insurance that is meant to protect your renter and any authorized driver against third party claims for bodily injury and property damage. SLI is excess coverage which means it can provide coverage beyond underlying liability limits*.

- If your renter hits someone, they may be liable for any damage exceeding the limits provided on the policy. If they significantly injure someone, the coverage provided may not be enough. In states like CA, PA, and NJ, the minimum limits are $15,000 bodily injury per person/$30,000 bodily injury per accident. If the renter injures someone in an accident, they may be liable for any amount over $15,000.

- For $14.95/day, your renter can purchase SLI which increases the liability limits provided on the underlying policy up to $1,000,000 in bodily injury and up to $50,000 in property damage liability.

*For trailers, SLI coverage is excess to the liability coverage provided from the tow vehicle/personal auto policy. SLI is purchased in addition to the liability coverage provided from the renter's policy, not in lieu of this coverage being provided.
